

Dear Switzerland class,

I know these last few weeks have been odd, unlike anything any of us have experienced before, but oh how proud I am of each and every one of you! I am missing seeing all of you each day and even missing the (sometimes random and off topic) conversations that we have together! I hope you're well and looking after yourself and those around you.

I hope you've been keeping yourself busy, learning new hobbies, reading and spending time with your loved ones. I would love to see any wonderful creations you've made; stories you've written or skills you've mastered when we return (or you can ask an adult to send them to the school Facebook page). I can also see that some of you have been logging into Education city and Bug club which is fantastic, I've been sneakily having a peak at what you've been up to and I'm so impressed! The most important thing for you to do is to keep smiling, laugh at everything and anything and keep washing your hands... remember the bread!

During this unexpected time away from school, myself, Miss Stupples and Mrs Hutley have been super busy working hard and planning some fun activities for when we get back to school and we are all itching to share them with you!

However, in between whipping up some fun plans, I've been trying to follow the advice I've given to you and do all the things I have been putting off! Learning to bake food that is actually edible, attempting to see through my cross stitch project to the end (photos to follow) and I'm trying (and mostly failing) to learn a new language! I'm also taking this time to bond with my cat... much to his dismay. I think he likes his new hat though... what do you think?

Mind you, since wearing his new fashionable accessory, he keeps looking at me like this... so now I'm not so sure! Hmmm.

I could keep babbling for ages but I'm sure you'd all fall asleep by the time I ran out of things to say, so I'll take a hint and stop here!

Hopefully we will see each other soon, because we definitely have more fun things to learn and plenty more laughs to share!

All the best to you and your loved ones,

Miss Howells x
